

Procurement Policy

Our Commitment

Next Rail is committed to efficient, effective, ethical, and sustainable procurement.

Our approach

Next Rail will strive to maximise value for our clients, stakeholders, and the communities we operate in through best in class ethical and sustainable procurement practices.

Procurement Policy in practice

Without suppliers Next Rail cannot meet client, stakeholder, or community expectations. The way we procure and manage the supply chain has a significant influence on profitability, reputation, stakeholders, communities, and our success in meeting our sustainability objectives and expectations.

Next Rail will, and expects our people, contractors, and business partners to:

- Uphold ethical business practices, comply with legislation, regulations, standards, codes, licences, and comply with applicable codes of business conduct including those of Next Rail;
- Understand the risks and complexities of the services and products we procure so that we can recognise and respond to issues and minimise risks;
- Develop, promote, and maintain systematic, integrated, and competitive selection, approval, and review processes to manage all critical and strategic suppliers;
- Continuously improve supplier relationships, and develop a resilient supply chain;
- Ensure procurement decisions are aligned with the business strategy and plans and take into consideration total lifecycle cost and the triple bottom line being the economic, environmental, and social impacts.

Paul Dudding
General Manager
Next Rail
September 2020